Money was paid for return of tiger, camels

THEFT An undisclosed amount of money was paid to return a Bengal tiger and two camels to an Ontario zoo after a truck carrying them was stolen, it was revealed yesterday.

Zoo director Michael Hackenberger said an "indeterminate amount of money" had been given to get Jonas the tiger, and camels Shawn and Todd, back. He would not comment further, citing an ongoing police investigation.

Quebec provincial police declined to comment when asked if a ransom was paid.

A $20,000 reward was initially offered when the truck was snatched from a motel parking lot on its way back from a show in Nova Scotia last Friday.

Lawyer Ian Vallance, who was changing clothes in his office at 112 Lisgar St., had to make a quick escape in his underwear as a 5.0-magnitude earthquake rattled residents across Ottawa.

Shaken and stirred

Quake sends Ottawans scrambling onto streets

A 5.0-magnitude earthquake centred about 60 kilometres north of Ottawa sent thousands of people out onto the streets in the city, leaving them shaken, relieved and then a little confused.

"It felt like a wave underneath me, it was just going up and down," said Cheryl Sheffer, a Bell employee who works in the Place Bell tower at 160 Elgin St.

When the rumbling began at approximately 1:41 pm, Sheila Kelly, who also works at Place Bell, thought it could be a bombing related to the G8 or G20 and was relieved it was "just an earthquake."

After evacuating the building, Sheffer and the thousands of people waiting on downtown sidewalks seemed at a loss for what to do next. "Nobody knows what to do now. It's like nobody has a plan for an earthquake," she said.

Across the street from City Hall, several bricks fell from the chimney of a house containing the offices of Victor Ages Vallance LLP. Ian Vallance, a family lawyer with the law firm, was literally caught with his pants down, forced to evacuate in his underwear.

"I was getting changed to go to court and was just about to put on my fresh suit and the building started totally shaking, and it was so violent that I just ran out of the office," he said. "When we ran out, that's when all the bricks fell down."

Someone lent him a suit jacket to cover up, he said.

But not everyone was shaken by the earthquake.

"I'm sorry, but that was awesome, I've got to say it," said Curtis, a bank employee on Sparks Street. "It was like a crescendo so you knew it wasn't a bomb. You could just feel it in your feet. I love that feeling."

An hour after the earthquake, Mayor Larry O'Brien, said there were no reports of serious injuries or property damage, but advised building owners and operators to do an assessment based on their own utilities and structural soundness.

School mourns student after street-racing tragedy

BARRHAVEN This will be a bittersweet day for graduating students of Mother Teresa High School.

Their graduation ceremony tonight will feature a special remembrance prayer for Christian Williams, the 18-year-old who died in a street racing-related collision Tuesday afternoon.

Students would have been getting ready for prom yesterday, but around 300 gathered at the school to speak with counsellors and grieve with their friends.

A memorial service for students and family members will be held tomorrow, according to the Ottawa Catholic School Board.

Barrhaven Coun. Jan Harder told city council that she had spoken to the principal at Mother Teresa High School, and a trust fund is being opened at the Bank of Nova Scotia to help the Williams family with funeral costs.

"Last year, Christian's mother died and is buried in Halifax, and it's my understanding that they want to send him back to be with his mom," said Harder.

"So if anyone has any thoughts of being able to do something to help, Scotiabank would be the bank, and the family and school community in Barrhaven would appreciate it."

In A Mattamy Home, You'll Find Wide Open Spaces.

43' WideLot™ Home, The Westlynn.

Mattamy Advantage #24

One of the most important interior features you'll find in a Mattamy home is the sense of spaciousness you experience. We use kneewalls to keep the space open. And we have shorter halls so walls don't crowd out the view.

This advantage is particularly useful in the kitchen/great room connection, which keeps the entire rear of the main floor nice and spacious. It also contains lots of windows to the backyard, so natural light further brightens the interior.

In a Mattamy home you'll find more living space and less wasted space.
Come on in and stretch out.

Audited payroll errors fixed: Treasurer

Staff says city's reported math mistakes were only 1 per cent of employee pay

STEVE COLLINS
for Metro Ottawa

City staff yesterday disputed a finding in the 2009 auditor general's report that identifies an "abnormally high error rate" of 56 per cent in the city's payroll processes, based on a sample of 100 files.

According to the report, seven of the errors were math mistakes, 34 involved improper documentation, like time sheets not being signed or authorized, and 15 involved misinterpretations of pensionable earnings that resulted in an estimated $2.6-million underpayment to the Ontario Municipal Employees Retirement System (OMERS).

City treasurer Marian Simulik said many of the problems have been corrected since the audit began. She also argued that none of the 34 documentation errors resulted in inaccurate pay, the pension problems were caused by changing rules, and the math errors represented only $2,761 out of $200,000 in employee pay, or 1.4 per cent.

The AG also noted one case of an employee holding two jobs with the city and raised concerns about access to sensitive information by payroll staff.

Other findings:

- Four people hired by the city's Revenue Branch had family ties to the department, and two did not have the basic requirements of the job.
- Some building inspections were carried out by unqualified students, some building approvals were granted without plumbing inspections, and fees for re-inspections were imposed inconsistently.

- Poor communication between city management and council was largely to blame for a more than 150 per cent increase for the SmartBus Next Stop Announcement System and SmartCard system to about $17 million from $6.7 million.

Man seriously hurt in shooting by cops

INVESTIGATION A 19-year-old man is in serious condition in hospital after being shot by police during an altercation in the Westboro Area on Tuesday night.

According to Ontario's Special Investigations Unit, which is mandated to review all reports of injury, death and assault involving police, officers were called to investigate a suspicious person in the area of Lanark Avenue and Van Lang Private around 10:15 p.m.

The man fled from police on foot through a park and into an apartment building at 31 Van Lang Private. Officers pursued the man and called in the tactical and K9 units to help search the building.

After the suspect was located on the ninth floor of the building, there was an interaction between him and the officers, culminating in the male being shot by police, according to a statement from the SIU.

Five investigators and two forensic investigators were called in to examine the incident.

SIU has identified the man who was shot as Ryan Charles, 19, of Ottawa.

Sunset ceremonies Back in town

The RCMP Canadian Sunset Ceremonies is back in town. The musical ride is always a crowd favourite, but the event also includes a mounted arms display, horse jumping and for the first time, a display of aircraft from the Vintage Wings of Canada. The sunset ceremonies run nightly until Sunday at the RCMP stables at the Canadian Police College on St-Laurent Boulevard.

News in brief

CAB FARES Ottawa's taxi rates, already among the highest in Ontario, are set to rise eight per cent July 1 when the harmonized sales tax comes into effect. The increase was approved by council yesterday. Council defeated a motion by Coun. Rainer Bloess to raise the rates an additional three per cent to account for increased operator costs.

Councillors question if some fraud hotline tips waste of time

REPORT Calls to the city's Fraud and Waste Hotline provided a number of leads for the 2009 auditor general's report, but some councillors yesterday questioned the value of some of these tips.

Fraud hotline tips investigated by the AG ranged from the relatively minor, like a group of firefighters with fire trucks spotted playing soccer in a city park, to more substantial ones, like a former city employee billing the city for $255,776 through a consulting firm, in violation of the city's re-employment policy.

Of 165 calls made to the hotline, 49 were made by city employees, 50 by members of the public and 66 by unknown callers.

Coun. Eli El-Chantiry

raised concerns about malicious callers taking advantage of the hotline's anonymity, and Coun. Diane Holmes objected to findings of $100,000 in inadequately documented spending at the Nepean Equestrian Park. She characterized a planned audit of the park's operations as "intimidation."

Auditor general Alain

Lalonde said he was open to further instructions, including bringing only proven allegations before council, but waste can be hard to prove.

"Fraud is fairly easy to define ... but when it comes to waste, it's a little bit difficult in terms of what is wasteful," he said.

Student emails lead to ex-teacher's arrest for child pornography

CRIME A former teacher with the Ottawa Carleton District School Board is facing child pornography charges.

On June 22, the Ottawa Police Service Sexual Assault/Child Abuse Section has charged a 46-year-old Wakefield man with possession of child pornography, mischief, and using a computer to facilitate an offence against a person under the age of 18.

TIM WIECLAWSKI/

CSIS chief backtracks on spy accusations

POLITICS Canada's top spy backtracked from his suggestion that he's working to oust politicians under the influence of foreign governments.

Dick Fadden, director of the Canadian Security Intelligence Service, said in a TV interview Tuesday that he was in the process of warning at least two provinces, through the Privy Council Office, that members of their cabinets are under the influence of foreign governments.

He declined to name the elected officials or countries involved but hinted China was one of them.

But Fadden backpedalled yesterday. He said he had "not apprised the Privy Council Office."

"At this point, CSIS has

Scotiabank StartRight® helps newcomers feel at home

Piyu Singh, 41, taught grades 11 and 12 in Delhi and her husband Vishwanath 45, was in the garment export business. They immigrated to Canada to experience a new culture.

The Singhs landed in Canada in February last year and celebrated their first Holi, the Indian festival celebrated with color, in Vancouver.

"It was the quietest Holi of my life," laughs Vishwanath, known to everyone as Vishy. "There was not much happening around us, but we have friends in Surrey, and it was nice to celebrate with them. We called home and spoke to family and friends."

"Our kids really missed all the Holi fun," adds Piyu. "The gulal, the balloons filled with coloured water, the pichkaris (water pistols)... It made us nostalgic about the home we had left behind to settle in Canada".

Open a Scotiabank account even before you take off!

Vishy credits Pankaj Mehra, Director, India and South Asian Markets, with smoothing their move.

The Singhs were introduced to banking in Canada before they even set foot on Canadian soil. "We met Pankaj at a seminar he conducted in Delhi for new immigrants. He was friendly and explained things in detail. Before we left Delhi, we received e-mails from Pankaj and Harinder Virk, the Branch Manager at Fraser and 49th in Vancouver. Sorting out something as important as banking while still in India was hugely reassuring. On arrival in Vancouver, there were e-mails directing us to the closest branch. This was a big help at a time when we would otherwise have been a bit shaky and unsure".

"For brand new arrivals, the feeling that you know someone at the bank is comforting. It is like landing in Canada and meeting a friend. The welcome was very warm, very genuine."

Besides its five branches in India, Scotiabank has a strategic alliance with HDFC Bank, which enables new immigrants to open an account in Canada – even before they have boarded the plane!

They can fill out an application, apply for VISA cards, etc., and these are couriered to Canada, where their bank accounts are set up. A welcome kit is mailed out to the clients or, if their arrival is imminent, an e-mail detailing how to remit funds is sent out so everything is in place.

StartRight® keeps pace with your changing needs.

"Scotiabank offers a comprehensive StartRight® Program for newcomers to Canada," says Rania Llewellyn, Vice-President, Multicultural Banking. "It was created after a lot of research and is an innovative program, tailor-made for newcomers".

"I recommend StartRight to others who are in the process of immigrating. I tell everyone we are StartRight customers for life!" says Vishy.

Their children, Ridhav, 14, and Yoshita, 11, have settled in well. Yoshita in grade 6 has her own group of friends which includes a Filipino, a Mexican and a Fijian. "Both of them are the junior multicultural minded immigrants!" says Vishy.

The Singhs are full of optimism. A year ago, while Vishy hoped to be in the garment business, Piyu was thinking of moving into counseling.

Today, Vishy has done a lot of spadework for his garment import business. "With the help of Scotiabank, I have been able to open a business account and seek advice from their senior trade officer, International trade. Limei Zhou at Scotiabank's downtown regional office has been wonderful and I have made strong in-roads to the local buyer's base. Although, due to recession and other factors things are slow I remain positive" says Vishy.

Piyu is finally in a profession where she wanted to be. She is a program counselor with PICS, a multicultural immigrants serving agency. She loves her job since it was always her focus to either teach in Canada or help other immigrants in whatever way she could.

"As new immigrants, there are so many experiences we have had that I feel we can help guide other new immigrants."

"And finally, I have a car; our first vehicle in Canada! The time will come when we will purchase our first home in Canada and I know where I will go for help and guidance," says Vishy, "Scotiabank!"

THIS ADVERTORIAL IS PREPARED BY SCOTIABANK.

Air India kin got 'scant respect': PM

Prime Minister Stephen Harper offered an apology yesterday to the families of those killed in the Air India terrorist attack, acknowledging that for decades they were treated with "scant respect."

"For that, we are sorry," Harper said in a speech in Toronto during a memorial marking the 25th anniversary of the tragedy.

"For that, and also for the years during which your legitimate need for answers and indeed, for empathy, were treated with administrative disdain."

Air India Flight 182 left Toronto on June 23, 1985, and exploded in the sky off the Irish coast, killing all 329 people aboard — 278 of them Canadians.

Another blast at Tokyo's Narita Airport an hour earlier killed two baggage handlers as they handled a bomb-laden suitcase destined for another Air India plane.

Harper also touched on the anguish and frustration families felt when the national tragedy was treated as a international incident, perpetrated by foreign terrorists.

Canadians, who sadly did not at first accept that this outrage was made in Canada, accept it now," said Harper. "It is wrong and it must be laid to rest. This was not an act of foreign violence."

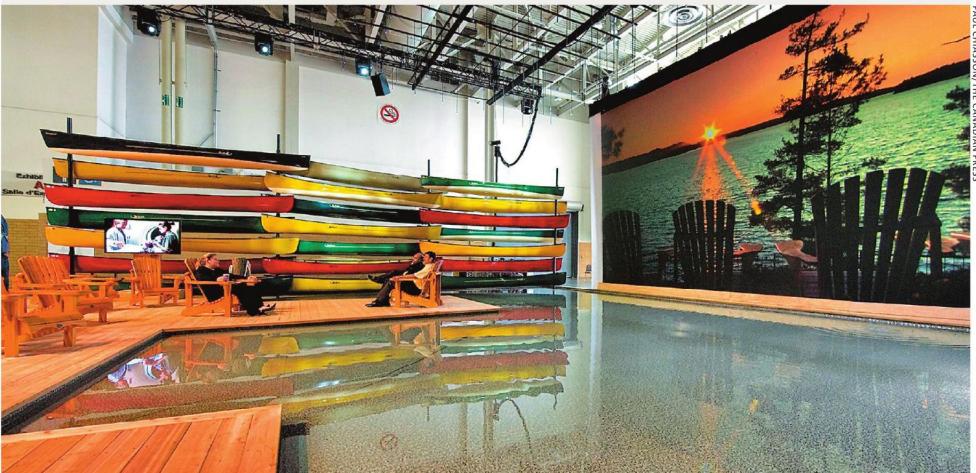

Only one person has been convicted in relation to the bombings.

Toronto Summit's fake lake is no great shakes

Reporters lounge next to a fake lake at the G20 media centre in Toronto yesterday. It might have created a splash across Canada, but most viewing it at the summit centre said it was a lot smaller than expected and barely deserved the flood of media coverage it got. The lake is part of a display promoting the Muskoka region.

SCIENCE Girls are being encouraged to become scientists, but the reality of a career in the lab often fails to meet expectations when it comes to salary and the

That's a conclusion from a new survey, which found that female scientists in many countries — including Canada — are paid sig-their Japanese counterparts were the least happy.

Canadian researchers were in the middle of the pack on the satisfaction scale.

Summits likely to be most costly ever: Budget officer

But official won't say yet if $1B security cost is justified

G20 Summit

Canada's G8 and G20 summits will likely go down as the costliest in history.

But an analysis by parliamentary budget officer Kevin Page says it can't be determined for certain at this juncture whether the about $1 billion price tag for security is too much.

The Harper government surprised most observers last month when it announced security alone would ring in at $930 million, resulting in NDP MP Don Davies requesting Page do an analysis of the expenditure.

Security costs roughly break down to $507 million for the RCMP, $278 million for public safety and emergency preparedness, $78 million for National Defence and $55 million as a contingency reserve.

The summits have also been dogged by accusations of needless spending on a fake lake to serve as a media backdrop and the sprucing up of Industry Minister Tony Clement's riding north of Toronto that includes the resort where the G8 meeting will be held.

Page's report makes clear that he did not receive sufficient detail on where the money is going to make a definitive determination on whether it was wisely spent.

But he notes that it is costing four times more to pay for the RCMP on a per unit basis and three times more for each national defence employee than it did the last time Canada hosted a similar event, the 2002 G8 conference in Kananaskis.

"These are significant unexplained variances and a more detailed breakdown of how the allocated funds are to be spent might help explain these variances," he writes.

Overall, Page concludes that while the Huntsville G8 will cost more in constant dollars than Kananaskis, it is within the range of reported costs for recent similar summits in L'Aquila, Italy, in 2009, and Hokkaido, Japan, in 2008.

The G20 summit in Toronto is another matter, however. Page estimates the big-city security required will result in a $600-million price tag.

That is double anything else reported for previous G20 or G8 meetings.

Page cautions that he has not received sufficient costing from other nations for a definitive comparison and he notes previous G20 summits in London and Washington had the advantage of being held in cities with pre-existing establishments.

Most of the cost for the Canadian summits stem from importing thousands of security personnel from across Canada and paying for food and lodging.

Last year's Pittsburgh G20 reported $18 million for security, but Page said that can't serve as a comparison because it left out the cost of deploying the U.S. army and national guard and other measures that are included in the Canadian accounting.

Davies said he still believes the costs are excessive, but added that Canadians will have to await Auditor General Sheila Fraser's audit to settle the issue.

ENVIRONMENT Canada has set up a $400-million fund to help developing countries cope with climate change, a move that has earned the country a rare cheer from environmentalists. The fund is Canada's contribution to an annual $30-billion global pot that rich countries agreed to establish Saudi King Abdullah bin Abdul Aziz al-Saud, centre, and Prince al-Walid bin Talal, back-left, attend the Janadriyah Festival of Heritage and Culture in the Saudi capital Riyadh last year.

King's entourage ready to spend big?

SUMMIT Yorkville, it seems, is fit for a king.

Or at least all the king's men.

The mammoth Saudi delegation headed by King Abdullah bin Abdulaziz Al-Saud — custodian of the Two Holy Mosques, keeper of the largest oil reserves, and the third richest monarch in the world — is moving into the Four Seasons Hotel in Toronto this week with an entourage that includes more than 200 Saudi politicians, economists and bodyguards.

The first indication of their royal entry came Tuesday when the Saudi advance security team, sporting G20 delegate credentials, gathered in the hotel lobby and near the entrance. Parked outside was a Chevy Suburban with a diplomatic plate registered to the Saudi embassy in Ottawa.

No one will say once the kingdom's private jumbo jets arrive at Pearson International Airport if the 85-year-old king will reside at the hotel, or has found sanctuary inside the security zone that officials have come to call "the cage."

But boutique owners in the ritzy shopping district that surrounds the hotel hope the monarch will bring his wives so that they can cash in on the excesses of the Saudi royal family.

Lack of regular tourism in the city right now has hurt business, they say.

"All the merchants would appreciate something good coming back from the summit," said Terry Wilson, owner of Yorkville's high-end Serecett Jewel Salon.

After the Washington G20 Summit in 2008, the royal family's entourage made a side trip to Rochester, Minn., so the king could go for a check-up at the Mayo Clinic.

While they waited, his wives and daughters dropped a reported $1.5 million at malls, restaurants and bars.

Though drinking alcohol could get you publicly whipped in Saudi Arabia, the royal family is known to tip a few.

"They came in, they populated our bar most of the time, drank a lot of Opus and Chimney Rock (wines)," Heather Pender- son told the New York Post in November 2008.

Oil gusher uncapped again

Underwater mishap leaves crude flowing as oil washes ashore in Florida

Engineers had to completely unclog the broken well spewing oil into the Gulf of Mexico yesterday after an underwater robot bumped into machinery being used to collect the spilled fuel. Hundreds of thousands of gallons more poured into the water as crews scrambled to replace a critical component.

The mishap left nothing to stem the flow of oil at its source. A camera recording the well showed huge clouds of black fluid coming out of the sea floor. It was not clear how long workers would need to replace the cap, which took weeks to install.

Bob Dudley, the managing director of BP who is taking over the spill response, said engineers expected to replace the cap in less than a day.

"It's a disruption, and the crew again did exactly the right thing because they were concerned about safety," he said.

"It's a setback, and now we will go back into operation and show how this technology can work."

Without the cap, the only means of collecting the oil was a ship at the surface that is sucking up oil and burning it.

The problem, yet another in the nine-week effort to stop the gusher, came as thick pools of oil washed up on Pensacola Beach in Florida, and the Obama administration sought to resurrect a six-month moratorium on deepwater drilling.

After the Deepwater Horizon exploded in the Gulf of Mexico in April, the Interior Department halted approval of any new permits for deepwater projects and suspended drilling on 33 exploratory wells.

U.S. District Judge Martin Feldman overturned that ban Tuesday. Hours later, Interior Secretary Ken Salazar said he would impose a new moratorium.

Obama cans general

U.S. commander in Afghanistan relieved in wake of remarks

U.S. President Barack Obama sacked his loose-lipped Afghanistan commander yesterday, a seismic shift for the military order in wartime, and chose the familiar, admired — and tightly disciplined — Gen. David Petraeus to replace him. Petraeus, architect of the Iraq war turnaround, was once again to take hands-on leadership of a troubled war effort.

Obama said bluntly that Gen. Stanley McChrystal's scornful remarks about administration officials represent conduct that "undermines the civilian control of the military that is at the core of our democratic system."

He fired the commander after summoning him from Afghanistan for a face-to-face meeting in the Oval Office and named Petraeus, the Central Command chief who was McChrystal's direct boss, to step in. In a statement expressing praise for McChrystal, Obama said he did not make the decision over any disagreement in policy or "out of any sense of personal insult." Flanked by Vice-President Joe Biden, Defence Secretary Robert Gates and Adm. Mike Mullen, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, he said: "War is bigger than any one man or woman, whether a private, a general, or a president."

As Obama was speaking, McChrystal released a statement saying he resigned out of "a desire to see the mission succeed."

"I strongly support the president's strategy in Afghanistan," McChrystal said. Obama hit several grace notes about McChrystal and his service after their half-hour meeting, saying he made the decision to sack him "with considerable regret." And yet, he said the job in Afghanistan cannot be done now under McChrystal's leadership, asserting that the critical remarks from the general and his inner circle in a Rolling Stone magazine article displayed conduct that doesn't live up to the standards for a command-level officer.

"I welcome debate among my team, but I won't tolerate division," Obama said.

The announcement came as June became the deadliest month for the U.S.-dominated international coalition in Afghanistan. NATO announced eight more troop deaths yesterday for a total of 76 this month, one more than in the deadliest month previously — July 2009.

Ships part of weapons plot, says Israel PM

Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu charged yesterday that the real motivation behind plans to send blockade-busting ships toward Gaza is to allow free flow of weapons into the Palestinian territory.

Netanyahu spoke as preparations were under way to send several ships carrying aid and pro-Palestinian activists toward Gaza, setting up potential confrontations at sea.

On May 31, Israeli naval commandos killed nine pro-Palestinian activists in clashes aboard a Turkish ship headed for Gaza, setting off a world outcry and forcing Israel to ease its three-year-old blockade.

Israel already has warned archenemy Iran to drop its plan to send a blockade-busting ship to Gaza.

The Iranian ship is one of several that activists say will head for Gaza in the next few months.

One is said to be heading for Gaza from Lebanon within days.

Yesterday, Lebanon warned that it would hold Israel responsible for any further attacks on blockade-busting ships.

Netanyahu said his government is drawing up a list of weapons and items with military uses that will not be allowed into Gaza "so that we can permit all the rest."

He said the new list will be made public "in the coming days."

Since the violent 2007 takeover of Gaza by Hamas — an Islamic militant group responsible for firing thousands of rockets at Israeli border communities — Israel has let in only limited humanitarian supplies, including basic foods and medicine.

Unfinished business

Listed as a "monument to unparalleled success," the largest home for sale in the United States comes with plenty of space but no carpet, tiles or interior walls. It's up to the future buyer to finish it.

The mansion started by timeshare tycoon David Siegel boasts plenty of big numbers: 90,000 square feet. Twenty-three bathrooms. Thirteen bedrooms. Ten kitchens. A 20-car garage, with additional space for two limos. Three pools. A bowling alley. Indoor roller rink. Two-storey movie theatre. Video arcade. Baseball field and two tennis courts.

All that and more for $75 million "as is." There's an option to buy it completed for $100 million.

Nicknamed "Versailles" for the French royal palace that inspired it, the edifice hit the market recently. Construction was halted last year to save money in a recession that proved particularly hard on Siegel's once-booming industry.

"This mansion is a great anecdote of the overconsumption that led to the

Steve

Goodbye columns are a bit self-indulgent, but I figured you might as well hear it from me: This is it for us — this is my last Relating column.

I hope this news doesn't bring about sadness (or too much gladness, either!) It will be OK. You'll be reading someone new in no time, and that's cool with me. I want you to be happy, or at least entertained.

We'll probably bump into each other from time to time, and I hope that's not too weird for you. If you're ever in Ottawa, you can still read me in Monday's paper.

I enjoyed our little bi-weekly thing. Thanks for reading me and my gorgeous, brilliant co-columnists, Andrea Woo and Sofi. "But maybe, said Papamarko. We hope it my friend, when was good for you stop looking is you, too.

I'll admit when you're finally, this column paradoxically, felt like a more likely to find strange bit of casting for someone. That me from the sounded right, too, outset. As I because it seems to said right off the top, the happen quite a bit."

Intricacies of relationships have always escaped my understanding.

My good ones have felt a lot like luck, and nothing I wrote on the subject should be construed as advice — or even a clue.

I probably should have included that disclaimer on every column there after. My sincere apologies go out to anyone who tried to navigate a real-life relationship using this column as a chart.

I was reminded of just how tricky advice of this sort can be, how any given theory on relationships might not be any truer than its obverse, as I talked to a good friend the other day.

He's single and trying to shake this stubborn condition with the help of eHarmony.

As a result, he's been through a lengthy series of one-off dates that have generally gone nowhere, but I assured him he was probably on the right track. Everyone he meets through the online service, I reasoned, has at least decided, like him, that she's serious enough about finding someone to take the step of registering and setting up dates. They're trying, you're trying and it makes sense to keep trying, right? It seemed self-evident.

But maybe, said my friend, when you stop looking is when you're finally, paradoxically, more likely to find someone. That sounded right, too, because it seems to happen quite a bit.

It's happened to me. I got lucky out of the blue. Kathryn made me lucky. So if I have occasionally come up a little short on specific wisdom to impart, I hope some of my luck has at least rubbed off on you. We all need it sometimes.

Steve Collins offers his best guesses on relationships for Metro every two weeks.

Debunking some popular feminist myths

FourthWave

After a year and a half of sharing my views with you all (hopefully ideas that show feminism isn't just a punchline), this is my last column. I'd like to leave you with some parting thoughts. When I tell people I'm feminist, I usually get one of these reactions. I hope these myth-busters help change the conversation:

Myth No. 1: Feminists are just hairy-armed, lesbian, spinster hags.

Some of us don't shave regularly, but that's because it's such a damn chore! But seriously, feminists work hard to shine a light on the many issues women face. When people dismiss our ideas, focusing instead on appearance or sexual orientation, it just proves prejudices still exist!

Myth No. 2: Feminists keep harping about the same things.

Rape, abortion, workplace equity and rights still dominate the conversation because, well, if these problems had disappeared, we wouldn't continue to see violence against women, under-representation as voices in politics and media, or lack of access to safe, legal abortions (G8 maternal plan, anyone?)

Myth No. 3: Equality has been achieved.

Canadian women have parallel lives: They make up the majority of the workforce and post-secondary enrolment, yet still earn less, are less likely to be managers, and when they get home, do the majority of housework. The quality of life among low-income and aboriginal populations is lower than the average; in Nunavut, the child mortality rate is four times the Canadian average. Does that sound like equality to you?

Myth No. 4: Feminists hate men and want to put them down.

No one is looking to rule over men, we're just looking out for the little guys (in a manner of speaking), whether it's racism, homophobia, classism, or even patriarchy. Any guy who has been expected to be a provider, a leader, to play sports or stop being a Nancy knows how burdening social expectations can be. A feminist who puts down someone else is no feminist.

Myth No. 5: Modern feminism is so trivial.

That's only if you consider feminism to be the domain of the Western world. Consider that in the developing world, a woman dies every minute either in pregnancy or in childbirth, and 90 per cent of these deaths are preventable; women are trafficked into the sex trade; women in many parts of the world have no access to health care, education or jobs. As long as these stories exist, there is always a woman who needs a helping hand.

It's been a good run, and thanks for listening. Stay in touch at canicelueung.com.

Developing world on track to cut poverty: UN

The global economic crisis has slowed the fight against poverty, but the developing world is still on track to meet a key UN goal of halving the number of people living on less than $1 per day by 2015, according to a report released yesterday.

Nonetheless, Secretary General Ban Ki-moon said the report shows that despite the financial, food and fuel crises, "the world is still making progress on reducing poverty, albeit more slowly."

Cutting global poverty is the first of eight Millennium Development Goals adopted by 189 world leaders at a UN summit in 2000. The report assesses prospects of achieving all of them and presents a mixed picture, with goals to improve sanitation and women's equality and to reduce maternal mortality lagging.

The overall poverty rate is still expected to fall to 15 per cent by 2015, due mainly to sharp declines in China and elsewhere in Asia, which means approximately 920 million people would be living below the international poverty line.

Phones feed World Cup craze

ON DEMAND Too many World Cup games and not enough time?

Squint your eyes and flip on your phone — the beautiful game is the latest sport to be beamed directly to cellphones as mobile carriers in Canada continue to experiment with delivering live television on the go.

Whether they're killing time on a bus, waiting in line for a coffee or — much to the chagrin of their bosses — checking in on the games at work, Rogers customers can pay extra to watch every World Cup game live on their phones.

It's the latest mega event to be beamed live to cellphone users, and one industry analyst says it's yet another sign that widespread live TV will be a reality — eventually.

Rogers customers with iPhones, BlackBerrys or Android phones can download an app that connects them to CBC's coverage of the World Cup.

Every game is being shown, in real time, along with an archive of past games and highlight reels.

The service carries a fee of $15 ($10 for the World Cup and $5 to subscribe to Rogers' video-on-demand service).

Telus also has a mobile TV offering, featuring programming from networks such as CBC, MuchMusic and YTV. No one from the company was available to comment.

Feds target dirty coal

Tough new rules: Clean up or close down

The federal government is adopting tough new regulations aimed at cleaning up coal-fired electricity generation.

"Most of Canada's coal-burning electricity plants are both dated and dirty," Environment Minister Jim Prentice said yesterday.

"We have a responsibility as a country to reduce our carbon emissions."

The proposed regulations will impose stringent performance standards on new coal-burning power plants, as well as older ones that are looking to extend their operating lives.

"Our regulation will be very clear: When each coal-burning unit reaches the end of its economic life, it will have to meet

Established after consultations with industry and the provinces, the standard will be based on parity with the emissions performance of high-efficient natural-gas generation.

Prentice said it will represent an improvement in emissions of about 60 percent per gigawatt hour generated. Nineteen of the 33

Brazil aims to keep rolling

GROUP G PREVIEW

Brazil vs. Portugal

Already through to the next stage of the World Cup, Brazil wants to keep its momentum going into the round of 16 by beating Portugal tomorrow.

A win would also allow Brazil to finish first in Group G, possibly avoiding a match against European champion Spain in the next round.

Brazil can finish first even with a draw in Durban. The team leads the group with six points, two more than Portugal, which virtually clinched a second-round spot after defeating North Korea 7-0. Ivory Coast has one point and the Koreans zero.

"Brazil needs to go into the match thinking about winning it," said Kaka, who will not play after being sent off against Ivory Coast. "It's fundamental to finish first. We know a draw will be enough, but winning will be important to give us confidence and motivation for the round of 16. Brazil will try to win this match."

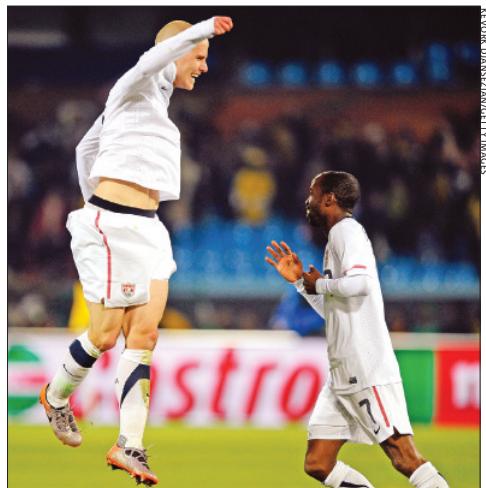

A victory also would allow Brazil to play the second-round match in Johannesburg, where it has been training since arriving in South Africa last month. The second-place team will have to travel to Cape Town for the round of 16.

GROUP C RESULT

U.S. 1 Algeria 0

Landon Donovan scored a stunning goal in the first minute of injury time, advancing the United States to the second round at the World Cup with a 1-0 win over Algeria.

With the U.S. perhaps three minutes from elimination yesterday, Donovan brought the ball upfield on a counterattack and Jozy Altidore's shot on the breakaway was tipped by Clint Dempsey into goalkeeper Rais Bolibi. The rebound went to Donovan, who kicked it in from about eight yards for one of the biggest goals in U.S. soccer history.

The win, the first World Cup victory for the U.S. in eight years, gave the Americans first place in Group C with five points. With just its fifth shutout in World Cup play, the United States (1-0-2) won a group for the first time since 1930 and will face the runner-up in Group D on Saturday.

Will history repeat itself?

England looks to 1990, when team overcame slow start

GROUP C RESULT

England 1 Slovenia 0

Twenty years ago, England struggled through the first round of the World Cup, just as they have done in South Africa.

Back then, the team still made the semifinals. So maybe the 1966 world champions should be hopeful again.

In 1990, England laboured through 1-1 and 0-0 draws in its first two group games and went on to win the third 1-0. The team did exactly the same thing this year.

"We thoroughly deserve

"We have found the spirit, the quality of the play was really good and we improved a lot physically."

Fabio Capello, England coach to go through. I thought all the players that started the game and all the subs were terrific today," Liverpool midfielder Steven Gerrard said. "We need to find consistency now in the knockout stages."

The parallels between the two teams extend beyond the results as well. The coach then, Bobby Robson, faced the same criticism from the media that Fabio Capello is now, but he survived to take the team deep into the tournament, eventually losing a penalty shootout to West Germany in the semifinals.

"I think if we play like we did today and keep listening to the manager and keep delivering what he's asking we've got the quality you need to win football matches, anything can happen," Gerrard said.

Just like in Italy, this World Cup campaign is having emotional and sticky moments, with England booed off the field by its own fans after a dismal 0-0 draw with Algeria and reports of unrest in the squad.

The team would have gone out if it had not beaten Slovenia 1-0 at Nelson Mandela Bay Stadium yesterday.

Capello, an emotional coach who was waving his arms and repeatedly shouting at his players, said the team had rediscovered the spirit it seemed to have lost.

"I saw the team really well on the pitch, with the spirit that we lost in the games we played before this one," the Italian said. "I'm sure we will play more with confidence. We have found the spirit, the quality of the play was really good and we improved a lot physically. We found the physicality that we know usually."

"The players were the same that we see in the Premier League."

Goal achieved, South Korea reassesses World Cup ambitions

SECOND ROUND Having achieved its aim of making the second round of the World Cup, South Korea is reassessing its ambitions for the remainder of the tournament.

The lucky seventh came thanks to a draw with Nigeria on Tuesday, which secured second place in Group B.

Star midfielder Park Ji-Sung said the team had already achieved its tournament ambitions.

"I'm not sure what our new goal is but we'll just try to win the next match," Park said on SBS television. "It really is fantastic to write a new chapter in the history of Korean football."

For months, any overseas player returning home was greeted at the airport with demands for a prediction of South Korea's chances of reaching the last 16.

World Cup

Dutch team visits site of political prison

APARTHEID The Netherlands team visited Robben Island yesterday, where Nelson Mandela and other anti-apartheid activists were long held in prison.

The Dutch scrapped their morning training session and coach Bert van Marwijk decided to take a ferry to the island for a guided tour, a day before their last Group E game against Cameroon at the World Cup.

"It really was appreciated by the players," said Van Marwijk. "We had time for it, and then you have to be able to offer the players something like that," he said.

The Dutch are based in Johannesburg and it was their first visit to Cape Town. The former prison is a half-hour ferry ride from the inner harbour.

They were shown the prison cells and the sandy, uneven soccer pitch where the prisoners used to play.

During the apartheid years, Mandela and President Jacob Zuma spent time there, playing soccer with fellow political prisoners.

"When you walk through the gate and you know everything that happened there," said Mark van Bommel, his voice trailing off. "You see the players get real quiet instead," he said.

Dane star 'doubtful'

GROUP E PREVIEW

Denmark vs. Japan

The World Cup fates of Denmark and Japan could hinge on whether Danish striker Nicklas Bendtner is fit to play in today's Group E match.

Bendtner has been bothered by a lingering groin injury and Denmark coach Morten Olsen said yesterday the forward is "doubtful" and that he'd leave his selection decision as late as possible.

"Every other day he doesn't participate in practice and when he plays, then we see how he is," Olsen said. "There's always a doubt with an injury like that, so we have to wait and see."

Bendtner participated in a special warmup with two other players at the beginning of yesterday's practice, but joined up with the rest of the squad for running drills and ball work.

Japan coach Takeshi Okada has identified Bendtner as the main threat to his team and has been drilling his players on how to shut down the Arsenal striker. The match will determine the final team from Group E to advance to the next round. Japan needs at least a draw, while Denmark must win in order to reach the round of 16. Both teams have three points from two matches, but Japan has a better goal difference.

Okada doesn't want his team to sit back and play too defensively.

"I told the players we shouldn't think about a draw," he said. "We should try to score. We should try to win."

The Netherlands has already advanced and has six points, while Cameroon was eliminated from contention Saturday after losing 2-1 to Denmark.

New Zealand's starters fit and ready for Paraguay

GROUP F PREVIEW

Paraguay vs. New Zealand

New Zealand will start today's decisive World Cup Group F match against Paraguay with the same 11 players who held world champion Italy to a surprising 1-1 draw.

New Zealand has two points from draws against Slovakia and Italy and can progress to the round of 16 with a win over Paraguay, which has four points. Italy has two points and Slovakia has one point ahead of their last group match.

New Zealand coach Ricki Herbert said yesterday there was no reason for changing the lineup as all players were fit and looking good.

Captain Ryan Nelsen skipped the team's training session at Peter Mokaba Stadium but Herbert described it as a precautionary measure.

"There is no problem.

"As a team, we grew a lot over the last four years. We have a lot of confidence when we go out on the pitch." Ivan Vicelich, New Zealand defender

Ryan will start," Herbert said.

After earning its first ever World Cup points, New Zealand could now stage an even bigger upset by reaching the knockout stages.

Defender Ivan Vicelich, New Zealand's most-capped player who starts in his 69th game today, said it would be "no miracle" if his team would achieve that feat.

"But it would be a great experience," Vicelich said.

"As a team, we grew a lot over the last four years. We have a lot of confidence when we go out on the pitch. We now know what we're capable of."

Joshua Kennedy of Australia and Aleksandar Lukovic of Serbia jump for the ball yesterday during their World Cup Group D match at Mbombela Stadium in Nelspruit, South Africa.

Aussies win, go home

GROUP D RESULT

Australia 2 Serbia 1

Tim Cahill and Brett Holman scored second-half goals yesterday to help Australia beat Serbia 2-1 in Group D of the World Cup, though both teams were eliminated.

Cahill put the Australians ahead with a glancing header from Luke Wilkshire's cross in the 69th minute and Holman added the second from long range four minutes later.

"A lot of respect for the lads. We've been through some hard times here," said Cahill, who was sent off in the team's opening match. "I'm just buzzing to hit the back of the net because this time last week my World Cup was over."

Marko Pantelic pulled a goal back for Serbia in the 84th, and then had a chance for a late equalizer but couldn't control a bouncing ball. If Serbia had drawn, the team would have advanced ahead of Ghana.

"I'm just disappointed we don't go through. We have four points, I thought it might be enough," Australia coach Pim Verbeek said. "In the end the goal difference against Germany killed us."

Australia's defence had been torn apart by Germany's wide run in its opening 4-0 loss and Serbia's early attacks were concentrated down the wings through Milos Krasic and Milan Jovanovic.

"We did our best, everything we could," Serbia coach Radomir Antic said. "This was a good game and I can't reprove my players as we had plenty of chances that we didn't take. In the end, we deserved more than what we got and now we have to go back home."

Flag inspires players to inspire nation

CHILE Every day when Chile's players walk onto the training ground used for their World Cup campaign, the torn and muddied Chilean flag flying nearby serves as a reminder of just how much their country needs something to cheer for.

The flag, ripped in the middle and covered in dirt, was pulled from the wreckage left behind by the earthquake and tsunami that hit the South American country in February, killing more than 500 people and leaving 200,000 homeless. It was held up by Bruno Sandoval in an iconic image after he retrieved it from a flooded area in coastal Pelluhue — a moment Chilean president Sebastian Pinera later hailed as "lifting the spirit of a country."

Now, the flag is serving the same purpose in South Africa.

"It's in our minds what happened with the catastrophe," Chile captain and goalkeeper Claudio Bravo said. "They brought the flag for that reason to remind us what happened in Chile, and that the whole nation is watching what we are doing."

The flag has been hoisted outside the team's training base at the Ingwenyama complex near Nelspruit, providing an emotional source of motivation for the players.

"I always go by there after the training sessions, and for me it shows the suffering of our country during the earthquake and the tsunami," defender Waldo Ponce said. "It's an extra motivation to go onto the pitch and make sure that our work gives a little joy after what happened."

Chile has won both its games so far, but still needs at least a point against Spain tomorrow in its last Group H match to guarantee a spot in the knockout round.

Stakes get

for Italians

GROUP F PREVIEW

Italy vs. Slovakia

Marcello Lippi and Fabio Cannavaro have added motivation for Italy's final group game against Slovakia at the World Cup today.

Both coach and captain have announced they will leave the national team after the tournament, and if the Azzurri can't win they could be eliminated.

"None of us want it to be the last game," Lippi said yesterday at Ellis Park. "On a personal level, we all feel that way."

Midfielder Gennaro Gattuso has also announced he will retire from international play when Italy exits.

"It would be a shame to stop after this game," Cannavaro said. "We've trained well these last few days and we're ready."

Cannavaro enters with an Italy-record 135 appearances but is coming off two of the worst performances of his career. He was responsible in part for both goals Italy has allowed in its opening 1-1 draws with Paraguay and New Zealand.

"I always feel responsible, because our World Cup fortunes are on the line," said Cannavaro, who lifted the trophy after the 2006 victory and won the Golden Ball award.

"I've always accepted positive criticism and I can also accept negative criticism. That's part of this job."

GROUP D RESULT

Germany 1 Ghana 0

Germany beat Ghana 1-0 after a second-half goal from Mesut Oezil to win Group D and set up a second-round World Cup clash with traditional rival England.

Ghana also advanced despite yesterday's loss at Soccer City and became the first African team to make the round of 16 at the first World Cup held on the continent.

"It was a tense game. We could have made more out of our opportunities," Germany coach Joachim Loew said. "We were not very precise up front. But I can't blame my young players, there was a lot of pressure, we had to win. And now we are really looking forward to England."

"It's going to be a special game, there is so much history between us. It's a team with many excellent players and a lot of experience. (Wayne) Rooney can explode any time, we'll have a tough job."

Pro football Hall of Famer Lawrence Taylor was indicted yesterday by a suburban New York grand jury on charges of third-degree rape and patronizing a prostitute. The indictment follows his May 6 arrest at a Holiday Inn in Ramapo, N.Y., where prosecutors say he paid a 16-year-old girl $300 to have sex with him. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Blackhawks to send Byfuglien to Thrashers in big deal: Source

NHL The Stanley Cup champion Blackhawks and the Thrashers were awaiting NHL approval yesterday on a multi-player blockbuster trade that would send Dustin Byfuglien, Brent Sopel and Ben Eager from Chicago to Atlanta, according to a person familiar with the negotiations.

The person spoke to The Associated Press on condition of anonymity because the trade had not received final approval from the league.

Chicago also would send a prospect to Atlanta and acquire first- and second-round picks in this week's NHL draft as well as forward Marty Reasoner and prospect Jeremy Morin.

The trade clears salary cap space for the Blackhawks and provides more experience for the Thrashers.

As the teams awaited league approval, players involved in the deal also were left on hold.

Sopel addressed the trade on his Twitter account. He tweeted "Thank You Everyone for the Amazing Well Wishes, but this is all just Rumor and has not been Confirmed yet. But regardless I LOVE U CHICAGO!"

Byfuglien can become a restricted free agent after the 2010-11 season.

Nash gets surprise upon return

NBA Steve Nash returned from the World Cup to a Suns team seeking a new general manager.

He already knew Phoenix would face the uncertainty of whether Amare Stoudemire might leave. Then GM Steve Kerr announced last week he was departing.

"It was very surprising," Nash said yesterday. "I didn't foresee that. We were all disappointed. But now that it's happened we wish him the best and we got to move on."

Stoudemire wants a maximum contract and has said he will opt out of the final year of his deal and test the free agent market if he doesn't reach an agreement with Phoenix before the deadline at the end of this month.

Henrik Sedin edges Crosby, Ovechkin for Hart Trophy

It's a good thing Henrik Sedin doesn't mind sharing the spotlight.

The Vancouver Canucks forward capped a breakthrough season by winning the Hart Trophy at the NHL's awards show last night, but had to watch as Alex Ovechkin accepted the Ted Lindsay Award.

They'll go down as co-MVPs — the Hart is voted on by the media, while the Lindsay is selected by the players.

"I don't mind at all," said Sedin. "When they called my

Lakers' Jackson set to retire?

Phil Jackson thinks he is just about ready to walk away from his unparalleled NBA coaching career. The Los Angeles Lakers are all hoping he will change his mind in the next week. The 11-time NBA champion coach said yesterday he is leaning toward retirement. After a full season of speculation on his health and future, Jackson will wait for the results of another battery of medical tests before informing Lakers owner Jerry Buss of his final decision late next week.

Award winners

Among the other award winners: Dave Tippett of the Phoenix Coyotes won the Jack Adams Award as top coach; Pavel Datsyuk of the Detroit Red Wings won his third consecutive Selke Trophy as top defensive forward; and Tampa Bay Lightning forward Martin St. Louis won the Lady Byng Trophy as the league's most gentlemanly player.

where he led the league in scoring with 112 points.

He edged Ovechkin and Pittsburgh Penguins star Sidney Crosby for the Hart.

It was the second straight year the league staged its award show in Las Vegas.

Meanwhile, a couple of Buffalo Sabres teammates went home happy.

Ryan Miller won the Vezina Trophy as the NHL's top goaltender while defenceman Tyler Myers took the Calder Trophy as the league's top rookie. They were also both humbled.

"I'm looking at all these names," said Miller, motioning towards the trophy.

"It's pretty amazing the history on this trophy. So to get my name on there is pretty cool."

Added Myers: "I can't believe I'm at this point right now."

The party continued for Chicago Blackhawks defenceman Duncan Keith, who added even more hardware to his collection — winning the Norris Trophy as the league's top blue-liner.

His season also included an Olympic gold medal and the Stanley Cup.

Longest match in tennis history set to continue

WIMBLEDON Even the scoreboard couldn't keep up in John Isner's marathon first-round match with Nicolas Mahut at Wimbledon.

The electronic sign keeping track courtside as the points passed and the game totals rose went blank while 23rd-seeded Isner of the United States and French qualifier Mahut played — and played and played — the longest match in tennis history, until action was suspended yesterday because of darkness at 59-59 in the fifth set.

"Nothing like this will ever happen again. Ever," Isner said in a courtside TV interview.

The match already had been suspended because of fading light Tuesday night after the fourth set.

They have been playing each other for a total of exactly 10 hours — seven hours six minutes in the fifth set alone, enough to break the full-match record of 6:33, set at the 2004 French Open.

"He's serving fantastic. I'm serving fantastic. That's really all there is to it," Isner said.

Wozniak was the last Canadian in the singles draw after Stephanie Dubois was eliminated in the first round.

A well-planned renovation

Here are some key things to think about before the sledgehammer arrives

tions or structural concerns? What is the best budget and timeframe for you?

Hidden costs: Re-routing pipes, old wiring that needs updating, floors that need strengthening, plumbing that needs upgrading. These are things that you only discover once the job had been started and walls/floors get opened up and exposed.

Designer tip: Keeping a simple design in mind for your kitchen will give it longevity. Here's two simple rules: Match the colour of the backsplash to the colour of cupboards you have chosen (creamy cabinets equals pale limestone or off-white backsplash tiles); match the tone/colouring of your countertop to the appliances (stainless steel appliances=medium to dark toned countertops).

Bedroom:

Questions to ask yourself:

Kitchen:

Questions to ask yourself: Is the current layout working well? Is there anything missing from the current kitchen that you want (like a wall oven, built-in dishwasher or an island)? Are there any considerations to renovating like a busy family life, condo board restric-

Be sure to consider everything before you take the sledgehammer to the wall for a renovation.

Is there enough closet/storage space? Is there a focal wall that will fit the bed and two ends tables comfortably? Do you want a television, stereo speakers or a computer wired in the bedroom?

Hidden costs: outfitting existing closets to be more efficient, privacy treatments on windows, new lighting or audio/visual equipment.

Designer tip: Are you a Cave or Cloud person? If you like to wake up in a dark room then you are a Cave person. Decorate your room with dark wood tones, richer wall and fabric colours and choose heavier draperies. If you are a Cloud person, then you need to wake up to some daylight streaming into the bedroom; decorate your room with lighter window treatments and lighter/brighter colours and tones.

The basement

- Questions to ask yourself: Is there sufficient height in the basement? Does the furnace, piping and duct work need to be re-routed in order to make better use of the space? Do you want to add a bathroom, sauna or kitchen in your basement?
- Hidden costs: Repairing wall structure, fixing hidden water damage, installing new furnace and windows.
- Designer tip: Basements often look dark and feel damp. Adding a heat source like a gas fireplace will add a sense of coziness and enlarging the windows can add more light. By decorating with reflective materials such as glass and mirror you will bounce light around.

Karl Lohnes is passionate about good decor and wants to help you have a beautiful home; no matter what your budget or style.

ROI an important aspect of home reno

RENOVATION For homeowners planning renovation projects this summer, making sure their home improvements are adding to the value of their homes is a common concern.

According to RENOVA, a web-based tool that helps homeowners calculate the potential rate of return on the top 25 most common renovation projects, bathroom renovations, along with kitchen renovations, topped the list, each boasting an expected ROI of 75 to 100 per cent.

The National Institute of the Remodeling Industry also ranked adding a bathroom near the top of its list for return on investment. The group estimated the average cost of installing a new bathroom at $10,000 and the average rate of return at 96 per cent.

Macerating toilet systems, like those by Saniflo (Saniflo.ca), are a great option for homeowners looking to maximize their return on a bathroom addition because of their comparatively low installation costs. Because these systems eliminate the need for a rough-in they allow homeowners to install a full bathroom for a fraction of the cost.

"Macerating systems can be installed on top of any finished floor," says Daniel Cayer, national sales manager at Saniflo Canada. "This lets homeowners cost-effectively add a new bathroom wherever it is most convenient: In a basement, attic or garage, under the stairs or inside a newly remodelled space."

Macerating toilets route flush water through the back of the toilet instead of down into the floor. A rotating blade is used to reduce waste and toilet paper, so it can be pumped away through 3/4-inch pipe to a connecting drain stack. The advantage of using use small-diameter pipe is that drain lines can be run without opening up walls and floors, which reduces renovation mess and installation time.

Bring back the oldies by hopping on the vintage train.

Give classic decor items a new home by throwing touches of vintage style into your space, creating the feel of stepping back in time.

"When scouring flea markets and antique shops, look for pieces that speak to you," said Karen Kwinter, style editor-at-large at Canadian Living and Homemakers magazines. "Either they have an heirloom feeling or just feel like a treasure to you."

Kwinter says some of the most trendy ways to infuse classic style into a room are by using vintage suitcases stacked as a side table or vintage chairs either recovered, refinished or stripped — or a modern-shaped chair reupholstered with vintage fabric.

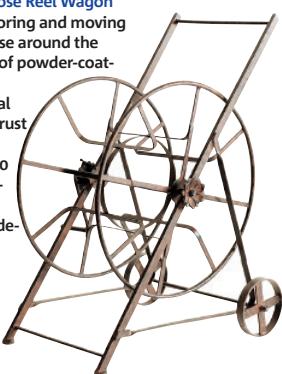

Boost the look of your yard with vintage garden furniture, left as is or repainted, throw some jungle fever into a room with vintage animal rugs — zebra prints are especially hot right now — or make a statement with a traditional chandelier.

Another way to add vintage into your decor is with world globes or framed vintage maps, or silver serving pieces, tea services or trays.

Hand-covered in vintage-inspired floral fabric and then distressed to reveal only a portion of its beauty, this looking glass frames your face in just the right amount of soft petals. Uncovered Paradise Mirror ties in a Victorian renovation. Anthropology, $598, anthropology.com.

Your home reno survival guide

It's best to stay somewhere else, but if you can't here's some tips for your reno

HomeScape

Sylvia Putz

metronews.ca/homescape

Generally speaking, I would strongly advise against living in a house undergoing a renovation.

Sure you can save money doing this, but will you save your sanity?

Even with this strong warning in place, I know there will always be those who live in the home during a renovation. Often, the decision is for economic reasons, and sometimes, homeowners under-estimate the difficulty of living in a space that is a construction zone.

It's important to know what you're in for. If the work extends only to a small part of the house, it is easier to maintain your equilibrium. If the whole house is involved, you will need to anticipate some very trying circumstances.

Here's how to survive:

- If you've got young children, stay with a relative or consider temporary living arrangements during the most disruptive periods of work. Construction sites can be unsafe for curious and active children, and produce a lot of stress in people who try to keep them safe.
- Minimize to an extreme degree the things that are stored in the house. Before construction starts, get rid of those you don't want or need. Then store as many things as you can in labelled containers, preferably away from your home where they won't get wrecked.
- Keep two rooms renovation-free to maintain at least some sense of order and routine, and a space into which to escape. Keep these rooms meticulously organized.

- Maintain some semblance of your normal routine (homework time for children, simple meal preparation and cleanup, bath, and so on) to keep you on an even keel.
- Always have a working bathroom.

- Always have a cooking area, even if it is temporary, involving a prep surface, a working sink and a stove.

- To avoid decision fatigue, make as many decisions as possible about flooring, colours and finishes ahead of time. Try to work out disagreements at this point, rather than during construction when delays can bring the whole process to a standstill.

Legal Matters

Q I purchased a condominium a number of months ago and spent several thousands of dollars painting and installing crown. Over the past couple of weeks, I have noticed a bubbling of the paint and the plaster in the walls. My neighbours stated that it now appears as if the former owner knew about this problem. What is my recourse?

A Your problem is a not too uncommon issue known as a latent defect. This situation occurs when a new owner uncovers a problem that more than likely the previous owner had known about but did not disclose before the sale. He or she had a duty to disclose any known issues to the new owner and it can then be addressed by way of and abatement (reduction) in the purchase price or the current owner can have the problem fixed prior to closing. The main issue with latent defects is whether or not you can prove that the vendor knew about the problem. In the case of the condo walls, it was a well-documented issue throughout the building so on the face of it, you have a direct cause of action for damages against the vendor if they don't rectify the problem with quantifiable damages.

Bring on budget bathrooms

The surprisingly strong housing market is catching many Canadians off-guard. Homeowners primed to sit on their investment and wait for the market to recover after the recession are once again thinking of selling their homes as sales and housing prices rebound more quickly than expected.

To prepare their houses for sale though, those looking to maximize their home's value are moving up the timetable on home repairs and upgrades like adding an extra washroom.

Having a minimum of two baths is essential to commanding a decent price in today's market and getting your listing noticed. Sites like the Multiple Listing Service (MLS) allow buyers to screen their searches by number of bathrooms among other criteria.

"Renovating or adding a second or third bathroom has always been a great way to increase the value of your home," says Michael Polzler, executive vice president, regional director, RE/MAX Ontario-Atlantic Canada. "In fact, bathrooms ranked amongst the most value-added upgrades by consumers in a recent survey conducted by our company."

For convenience and functionality, a house should have a bathroom on every level with functional living space. Adding a bathroom may seem like a daunting task, but with macerating toilet systems, this kind of renovation project doesn't have to be expensive or

Having a minimum of two baths is essential to commanding a decent price in today's market.

Scaling back

- The good news is the economy is showing signs of recovery. The bad news is spending cuts aimed at slashing the deficit have forced the cancellation of stimulus incentives like the Home Renovation Tax Credit.
- Without the popular program being extended for another year, homeowners are once again faced with picking up the full tab for home improvement projects.
- Adding insult to injury, additional rebates offered by home improvement retailers hoping to woo customers planning to take advantage of the federal program are also a thing of the past. The loss of these incentives, which offered combined price breaks of 25 per cent or more, is hitting homeowners in the pocketbook. As a result, many homeowners are scaling back their renovation projects or eliminating the high-end fixtures and finishes they wouldn't have even given a second thought a year ago.

Celebrating 30 Years

Ottawa Jazz

The Ottawa Jazz Festival celebrates 30 years with popular returning series' and a new Anniversary Series showcasing a collection of artists personally invited to commemorate the milestone.

Keeping the music alive

RAF BRUSILOW
for Metro Ottawa

The Ottawa Jazz Festival returns for the 30th time from June 23 — July 4 and even after three successful decades the music still feels fresher than ever.

As Canada's second-oldest jazz festival, behind Montreal, it's not only been a great yearly venue for jazz, but a launching point for some successful careers — artists like Diana Krall, D.D. Jackson and Dave Douglas were showcased long before finding wider success.

The festival has drawn other big names in its three decades, including returning jazz greats Herbie Hancock (June 25) and Dave Brubeck (July 3) both playing the main stage in Confederation Park, while the legendary Smokey Robinson will make his first appearance June 24.

Festival executive producer Catherine O'Grady says reaching a milestone like 30 years really puts the value of the festival in perspective.

"There's definitely a bit of reflection when you get to this point. You think about the numbers of careers we've made, the numbers of people who've been involved over the years and the fact that we've managed to showcase an art form that isn't commercial. I'm really proud that we've been able to keep the music alive," O'Grady said.

Returning series include Great Canadian Jazz featuring top home-grown talent like bassist Al Henderson

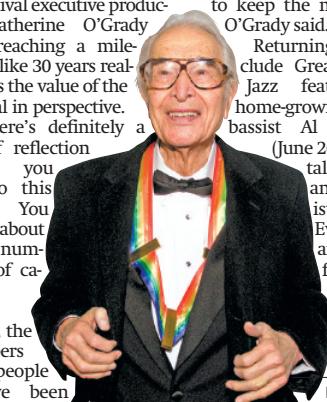

(June 26) and multi-talented jazz and soul vocalist Kellylee Evans (July 4) and the fan-favourite Improv Invitational showcasing improvisational masters like Polish trumpeter and composer Tomasz Stanko (July 4).

New this year is the Anniversary Series, a collection of artists invited personally by retiring programming manager Jacques Emond to celebrate the festival's 30th birthday, including pianist Fred Hersch and clarinet and sax virtuoso Anat Cohen.

O'Grady says fan interest has inspired the festival to showcase more local artists than ever before.

"I hope we'll be making some local artists into household names. The audience here in Ottawa continually blows me away with how knowledgeable and well-informed they are and how loving they are of the work these artists do," she said.

Dave Brubeck

The beat goes on for Matt Wilson

• At the age of 46, jazz drummer Matt Wilson is no plucky upstart, but he still plays with same energy and emotion he did when he burst onto the New York jazz scene more than 20 years ago. The highly sought-after recording drummer and band leader returns to the Ottawa Jazz Festival June 29.

Q You've played the Ottawa Jazz fest many times, what keeps bringing you back?

I love Ottawa, it's one of my favourite cities. Whether it's the Confederation Park stage or a smaller venue, everyone's so accommodating and it's a great city to walk around in.

Q You do a lot of studio work, but still perform shows often — what keeps bringing you to the stage?

A The thing about jazz is the audience is such a big part of the exchange. There's a serious flow of energy between the performer and the audience. If you make people comfortable it makes the night great.

Q Where do you continue to find inspiration?

A I love the constant discovery of how the simplest aspects of music can still yield beautiful results, that's what keeps me going. Sometimes the bare necessities that grab you, they can't be explained, but they do something to you.

Precollections are becoming increasingly more important

KENYA HUNT
Metro World News

What exactly is a pre-collection anyway?

Consider them the more low-key, real-life cousins to the runway extravaganzas you see photos of during the fashion weeks. Increasingly big sellers in stores, pre-collections are usually more wearable.

While the clothes you see on a prêt-à-porter catwalk often look more appropriate for a fantastical magazine shoot than the street, the pre-collections are created to work in a woman's every wardrobe. And they're often shown in modest presentations in showrooms instead of big productions. (Though it's worth noting that more resort '11 collections were shown as runway shows this season than ever before).

They also give a hint at what direction a designer might go in for the prêt-à-porter season. For example, the military trend first surfaced in a Burberry Prorsum pre-fall collection.

Pictured right is a look at a few resort '11 standouts.

Cruise, resort, pre-fall, pre-summer. Whatever you want to call them, the smaller pre-collections that fill the gap between fashion weeks are becoming more important to shoppers and retail stores alike. Left: Diane von Furstenberg.

What the experts say

• Helen David, womenswear, Harrods:

"Pre-collections ensure that we always have new merchandise arriving on the floor," explains Helen David, the womenswear general merchandise manager at Harrods in London, England. "They allow us to continue to offer the full priced customer new merchandise during the sale period, which is imperative to being able to look after this customer all year round," she adds. David notes that pre-collections are great because they're also the most commercial delivery and sit on the sales floor at full price for the longest time. "So they drive the business while offering a great selection to the customer," she says.

Jackson's spirit kept alive by fans

CEMETERY Hundreds of fans are expected at Forest Lawn on Friday to commemorate Michael Jackson's death. The singer's tomb inside the cemetery's gothic Great Mausoleum remains closed to the public, and Friday's memorial won't change that.

But through the efforts of fans, it's become a place where Jackson's international fan base comes to grieve. Many who can't make it in person send letters, poems, artwork and other gifts so that Jacobs and others can deliver them to the cemetery, where they are placed at the singer's tomb until new items arrive. Another focal point for Jackson fans has become the downtown Los Angeles courthouse where Dr. Conrad Murray will be tried on an involuntary manslaughter charge for Jackson's death.

On hearing days, fans wearing sequined gloves and T-shirts calling for justice wait for hours clutching signs denouncing Murray and shout at him for the brief moments it takes him to walk from the curb to the front door.

Childhood hometown to hold memorial for Michael Jackson

The childhood hometown of Michael Jackson is planning a tribute Friday at his former house to mark the one-year anniversary of his death, and the mayor says his mother is among the people expected to attend.

Gary Mayor Rudy Clay says Katherine Jackson will attend the event along with her granddaughter, Genevieve Jackson, the daughter of Randy Jackson. The event will include speeches, performances and a candlelight vigil.

"We expect thousands to show up," said city spokeswoman LaLosa Burn.

Workers at the house on Tuesday said Katherine Jackson wanted the house spruced up for the event.

The flowers, balloons, stuffed animals and signs that covered the front lawn for weeks after Jackson's death from an overdose of sedatives are gone. The tiny house already has a new roof, a fresh coat of

The memorial, consisting of flowers and candles, stayed on the Jackson residence for months after his death.

Mother OKs MJ tribute concert

ANNIVERSARY Michael Jackson's mother has given her blessing to a tribute concert that will mark the anniversary of the pop singer's death.

VoicePlate Productions is staging the Forever Michael fan event Saturday at the Beverly Hilton hotel in Beverly Hills, Calif., but some have wondered if it was legitimate or done with the family's approval.

In a video posted on YouTube, Katherine Jackson appeared with the tribute's organizer, Joseph Fahmy, to thank him for putting it together.

"I know that Michael would be very honoured and very pleased that his fans all over the world are coming together to celebrate his life," she said.

She also thanked people for the support they have given her family since her son died June 25, 2009, at age 50. Meanwhile, NBC said Tuesday it would feature an interview with Katherine Jackson on a Dateline NBC.

Nearly 30,000 people attended the public funeral for MJ.

City officials estimate that 5,000 fans will attend the ceremony for Michael Jackson white paint, newly poured concrete along the walkway and driveway and is surrounded by a black wrought iron fence.

The only time Jackson has returned to his hometown was in 2003, when plans for a Michael Jackson Performing Arts Center in the city's downtown were announced. It was never built. Jackson's father and city officials announced plans earlier this month to move ahead with plans to build the performing arts centre and a museum, but many in the city have their doubts whether it will ever be built. The city hopes to make the memorial an annual event.

Take Five*Metro Recipe of the Day*Grilled Chicken with White BBQ Sauce

Recipe Developed by Paula Bowman

PREP TIME: 10 MINUTES*COOK TIME: 15 MINUTES*INGREDIENTS:

1 cup plain Greek style yogurt
 1/4 cup olive oil
 2 tbsp cider vinegar
 2 tbsp honey
 2 tbsp prepared horseradish
 1 1/2 tsp salt, plus more for chicken
 1/2 tsp finely ground black pepper, plus more for chicken
 1/2 tsp cayenne
 1 1/2 lb chicken drumsticks, boneless thighs or breasts

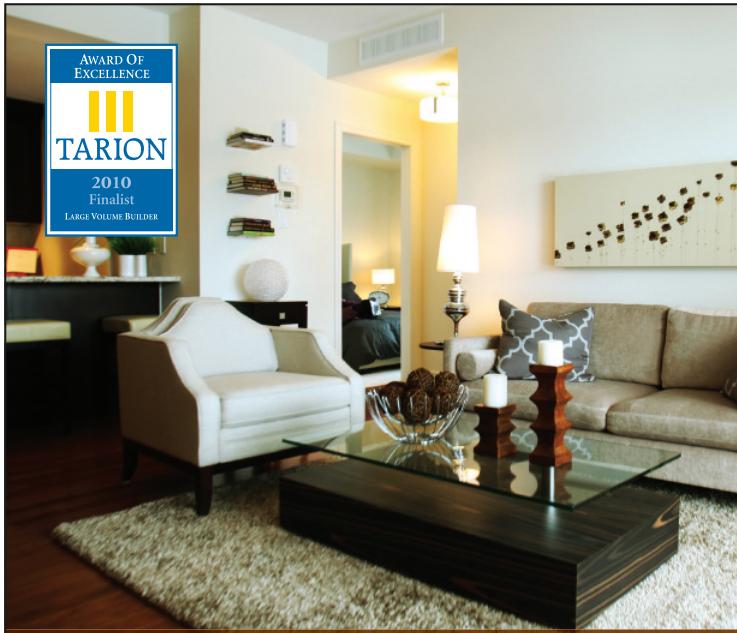

3. In a small bowl, combine 2 tablespoons olive oil and 1/4 teaspoon cayenne and stir well. Bush oil mixture on chicken pieces and season with salt and pepper. Place chicken on hot grill and cook, turning often and basting with olive oil mixture until cooked through. Chicken breasts and boneless thighs will be about 5 to 8 minutes per side, drumsticks will be about 14 to 16 minutes. During the last 6 minutes of cooking, baste chicken with remaining 1/2 cup yogurt mixture and discard any that remains after chicken is finished. Cover chicken with tinfoil and let rest until ready to serve.
